THE WEEK IN SOCIETY.

Sylvan sports and pleasures have been abandoned for a time by a considerable portion of the fashionable world, which has developed a sudden ffection for yachts and for yachting. The glowfoliage of fields and woods and the charm of simple country life have all been forsaken for the international yacht race, which has conspired with international in nearly every place within a reasonable distance New-York, and to fill the town with a crowd of people well known in the world of society, whose ess here at present is to witness the struggle the Vigilant and the Valkyrie for the ested in the contest, and little else is discussed. Yachting parties are the order of the day, and every man and woman stands ready and willing o go to sea in his or her friend's private steam yacht. Ship loads of guests were carried down the bay on Thursday and yesterday, in such numbers that it would be unsafe even to attempt an ap-proximation of them. Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt had a large number with them on their beautiful steamer the Valient, while the many on the different yachts and excursion steamers were as much of a sight as was the British cutter. Lady Dunraven and her two daughters were among the guests on Mr. Vanderbilt's boat. Besides the members of the Cup and Regatta committees Commodore and Mrs. Morgan entertained on board of the May, which is the flagship of the New-York Yacht Club, Mr. and Mrs. De Lancey Kane, Mr. and Mrs. August Belmont Purdy, Mr and Mrs. Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Emmett, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sherwood, Mr. and Mrs. Stanford White, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Russell Hone, Mr. and Mrs. Penniman, Mrs. William Iselin, Miss Iselin, Dr. and Mrs. Edward L. Keyes, General Paine, George L. Rives, Lieutenant Henn, Woodoury Kane, James Parker, Frank Gray Griswold, Commodore Kane and Charles F. McKim. Mr. and Ogden Goelet had with them on their steam Mrs. Ogden Goelet had with the first Michael yacht, the White Ladye, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Henry Herbert, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Mortimer, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goelet, Worthington Whitehouse and Richard T. Wilson, jr. Mr. Belmont's jaunty Ituna was freighted with John Jacob Astor and his guests. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Vander-bilt entertained a large party on the Conqueror, inbilt entertained a large party of the content and Mr. and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Howard, and Mr. and Mrs. William Post, and ex-Commodore Gerry had a merry party of young people with him on the Electra. The first day of the contest was depressing because there was no wind to thrill the hearts of those who had arisen from their beds long before their accustomed hour, to see a race which did not take place. Disappointment took the place of enthusiasm, and even the Englishman, a passenger on the St. Johns, who nearly lost his reason through joy when the Valkyrie drifted past the Yankee boat, returned to town a dejected and discouraged man.

The theatres and fashionable restaurants have shown the effect of the presence in town of the "society element," and Fifth-ave., too, for the last few days has been full of animation and cheerful-ness. Although the town looks bright and full in its fashionable precincts, the suburbs are by no means deserted. There is a lively and interesting means deserted. There is a lively and interceases colony of fashionable people settled in comfortable homes in the neighborhood of Hempstead, where in a few days there promises to be some excellent sport. Preparations are being made by the Hempstead Farm Racing Association for its annual fail races, which, as in former years, will take place the races course, a short distance from Hempstead Farm Racing as the races course a short distance from Hempstead Farm Racing as the races course as short distance from Hempstead Farm Racing as the races course as short distance from Hempstead Farm Racing as the races course as short distance from Hempstead Farm Racing F on the grass course, a short distance from Hemp stead. The course has been much improved since season, and it is now furnished with a new grandstand which will give shelter to the spec ators, who were formerly compelled to remain in their carriages or line themselves along the rude fence on the side, with nothing between them and the sky but their hats. It has been decided to have the first races on Thursday of next week and the second on the following Saturday. Mr. Wood, the secretary, has arranged a splendid programme for both days. Thursday there will be, besides a steeplechase and three flat races, a hurdle race of one mile and two furlongs. On Saturday there will be a steeplechase, four flat races and a twomile hurdle race. Amons the stewards of the as mile hurdie race. Among the sewards of the association are E. D. Morgan, August Belmont, Foxhall Keene, Sidney Dillon Ripley, A. Belmont
Purdy, S. S. Howland, Thomas Hitchcock, jr.,

Despite the number of departures, life at Newport is still mildly interesting, although there were no large entertainments last week. There is no denying that the barred and bolted cottages have a depressing effect upon those who choose to remain after a certain period, but the beauty of the Indian summer and the glorious drives ra- from St. considerably over one million of dollars for it. Lorillard is expected to return from Paris some time within the next three weeks. Mrs. Nellson, who passed the summer at Lenox, has taken a lease of the Muenchinger cottage, in Bellevue-ave., till Christmas.

The week at Lenox was gay. There was a dance every evening, each one prettier, livelier and pleas-anter than the former one, and there were numerous luncheon and dinner parties. Few of the cot-tagers have closed their establishments and the hotel

AUSTRALIA LIKELY TO WIN.

ONLY TWENTY MORE RUNS NEEDED IN THE INTERNATIONAL CRICKET MATCH.

Philadelphia, Oct. 7.-With fifteen minutes more of play the second great international cricket match between Australia and Philadelphia would have ended to-day in favor of the former. As it now stands, the visitors need twenty runs to win, when play is resumed Monday, as they have six wickets left. The fielding and bowling of both teams to-day were of a high order and frequently elicited shouts of admiration from the spectators. To-day's score was: Australia, 206; Philadelphia, 106. Philadelphia yesterday scored 119, making the total score: Philadelphia, 225; Australia, 205.

Editor of The Tribune. Sir: I am a very old friend of The Tribane, and my first word concerning it must always be one of praise. I take great pains to get it, and I use all praise. I take great pains to get it, and I use a my influence in favor of it. If I did not care for it in the way of real friendship, I should not be troubled by some things which do trouble me now. Of course, I don't know whether criticisms, other than ure has no influence. In no paper are the waisis so small as in The Tribune. I am glad to think that I see a little diminution in the number of pictures which we are called on to book at. I am quite sure that there are not so many offensive pictures introduced to illustrate the many one state part of patent medianes as there were a year ago. Why should a paper the Tribune countenance the cruel sport of physonshooting? Why should it sometimes give a flippant heartless ending to a story of human suffering and In everything else it knows what it is talking about, I believe. The Tribune ready stands by itself, and has a high responsibility before God. The majority of its steady teaders are friends of religion and mood morals. It cannot afford to conform to the ways of a press which may so truly be called Satanic.

Now, why should it put a great volume, made up of the very best it has to give, before its readers on Sunday? Why not distribute the choire things along through the week, and make the Sunday issue just as little fascinating as possible? Try the sentiment of your readers on this question. And oh, if you could lead the way to a modification of this horribie tyranny of interviewing? No sorrow is too sacred, as tragedy too overwhelming, to be intruded upon by a merchess reporter and cruelly misrepresented, with every painful detail turned out for inspection, if he does not receive the full answers he demands.

New-York, September 27, 1893.

To the Editor of The Tribune. Sir: As a regular reader of The Tribune and a business man, I feel that special thanks are due you for the timely editorial in to-day's paper en-titled, "Panic Breeders Not Wanted." It ought to be widely copied and its advice besied. From the beginning of this financial panic I have firmly believed the real disturbing element was the dread of some radical reduction in duties, and the consequent injury to the manufacturing interests. It induced prudent men who had money loaned out to draw it in wherever possible. No doubt the continued pur-chase of silver and the issuance of $4,000,000 of currency each month helped to impair confidence in the future, and was selzed on by croakers to aug-ment the panic. But the worst is over, and if we could be secured against any radical change in the tariff the business of the country would soon re-sume its ordinary magnitude, and with this conficratic friends about this menace they tell me: "You need not think we Democrats are fools. Rely on it, nothing will be done by us to injure the manufacturing interests." Still, the fear prevails among manufacturers and dealers, and there is a general cessation of new business, and a waiting to see what will be done by Congress in this important matter. True, there have been many disasters on the ocean of business, but the hulks of most of these ventures still float. Their sails have been blown away—often spars and masts gone; some possibly so strained they require constant pumping to keep from sinking entirely. Give them a chance to be towed into port, and the most of them can be repaired soon enough to make a profitable ending to their voyage. Hence it is all important to ered the hurricane, that the sea of distrust be no longer needlessly ruffled.

by bankers and capitalists, intended to be only temporary, that will have to remain for months as permanent loans. This should be thought of by the ienders. In the recent past there had been too many venturesome undertakings of a permanent character started that relied mainly on short-time loans for means to complete them, such loans being often secured by the bonds and stocks of the uncompleted works. Undue precipitancy in efforts to get back the money must continue to harass the projectors, and incidentally to hamper legitimate enterprises that have hitherto paid well but are now almost unprofitable. If holders of such loans recognize this condition, and instead of forcing further sales of securities, by which the panic is increased, would by amicable arrangements turn their short-time loans into longer ones, and thus become the out-and-out owners of their collateral as a more permanent investment, they would help to restore confidence to a community which is all the time fearing that there will yet be other accrifices of values. In this way they would advance the value of these securities, thus getting out with less loss.

A REPORTER FELLS SYDNEY ROSENFELD.

LANGUAGE OF THE OPERA COMPOSER. While "The Rainmaker of Syria" was making rain and the chorus was grinding out its cheerful music at the Casino last night, Sydney Rosenfeld, one of the composers of the opera, and now the general manager of the piece, stood in the lobby, hinking. He had been there for only a few minites when Paul Latzky, a reporter, approached utea when Paul Latzky, a reporter, approached him to ask if the opera was still being given. For a reply, Mr. Rosenfeld said of course it was being given, as usual, and, apparently to make his remarks more effective, he used offensive language to Mr. Latzky. Mr. Latzky was so displeased with the language that he knocked Mr. Rosenfeld down, and held him there until some one went for a policeman. There was no damage done to Mr. Rosenfeld, save a broken pair of eyeglasses and a slight scratch on his face. Neither man was arrested. Mr. Rosenfeld said last night that all differences had been settled at the Casino, and that the opera would finish its engagement. It will henceforth be called "The Woman King; or The Rahmaker of Syria."

PEAR ON THE LIST OF ANY DELEGATES FROM HIS DISTRICT-MR. COCHRAN REMEM-BERED BY JOHN J. SCANNELL.

Primaries to elect delegates to the several Tammany Hall conventions in this city were held in all the Assembly districts last evening. Over 10,000 traves, of all classes and characters, were named to and Judiciary Convention to meet in the big hail of the Wigwam on Tuesday evening, October 17.
The district leader heads each county convention roll, and every man in the district who makes any pretensions to loyalty to Tammany expects to Assembly Conventions, of October 12, Civil Judicial Conventions of October 13 and Senate Conventions

'wiped off" the Democratic State Committee, as reorganized by the machine at Saratoga on Friday. Fire Commissioner John J. Scannell, Tammany leader of the Xith Assembly District, made Mr. Cockran one of his delegates to the County Convention; but the name of ex-Mayor Grant, who was retained as a member of the State Committee, does not appear on the list of delegates sent to any convention from the XXIIId Assembly District, in which he lives.

There was no contest anywhere, and there was little actual voting. The lists of delegates as made up by the bosses were declared "duly elected" withmut protest from the "fettered Democracy."

The headquarters of the Democratic State Committee have been established at No. 11 West Twenty-fourth-st., and will open for campaign work to-morrow inorming, with Charles R. De Freest, the secretary, in charge.

THE DEMOCRATIC BOSSES PROPOSE TO PUT A

CRIMINAL ON THE JUDGE'S BENCH-WHAT DO

From The New-York Times (Dem.).

Do the people of this State propose to elect a criminal to the Court of Appeais Hench? Popular suffrage has sometimes raised base persons to high places, but it has rarely done itself so ill a turn as that. It would be a hideous travesty of free institutions. The bad rulers of history who have appointed corrupt judges have done so because they wished justice to be perverted for their self-interest. The interest of the people, altogether and without exception, is served by upright judges and equal and exact justice. Through indifference or laziness the people of the State of New-York may stupidly allow Maynard to be elected. It is inconceivable that they can affirmatively desire his election. From The New-York Times (Dem.).

ceivable that they can affirmatively desire his election.

Mr. Maynard stole and suppressed a corrected election return, allowed the false return to be counted by the canvassers, he being present and not protesting, and through this crime, punishable under the Penal Code by five years' imprisonment, his party gained a seat in the State Senate to which it was not entitled, and with that seat the control of the Senate. The people had voted the other way. Judge Maynard's act thwarted their will. It was in its nature and intent one of the gravest crimes known to the laws of a republic. It was so pronounced by the committee of the Bar Association. By that committee, composed of the most eminent lawyers in this city, many of them Democrats, Maynard was declared to have been guilty of suppressing the corrected return and conniving at the counting of the illegal one. There is no room for doubt about the facts.

The candidate nominated by the Republicans for this office is a member of the New-York bar of good standing and excellent character. The only way to defeat Maynard is to vote for Bartlett. If Mr. Platt will support his candidate in good faith, the vote of protest against Maynard, added to the Republican vote, will be sufficient to elect him.

SHALL THE WAGES OF THEFT BE THE

ERMINE? THAT IS WHAT TAMMANY AND ITS ALLIES HAVE IN MIND.

From the New-York World (Dem.).

Mr. Bartlett has never been accused by eminent members of his profession, as Judge Maynard has, of "one of the gravest offences known to the law." He has never been declared by a non-partisan Bar Association, as Judge Maynard has, to possess "a clear unitness for high judicial station." Under any circumstances, elminating the Dutchess election controversy, the nomination of Judge Maynard must be regarded as a weak one. The convention simply registered the will of the bosses. District-Attorney Ridgway, of Brooklyn, put the case with a frankness more brutal than politic when he exclaimed, in concluding his speech to the politicians who composed the convention: "Nominate Judge Maynard and pay him the debt you owe him." From the New-York World (Dem.).

TO STEAL OR NOT TO STEAL IS THE ONLY QUESTION.

SHALL THE CRIMINALS OF NEW YORK PUT ONE OF THEIR " PALS" ON THE BENCH!

From The New-York Evening Post (Mugwump).

The platform of the Saratoga Convention very appropriately hitches the theft of the Senate to Maynard's candidacy and puts both before the people of the State for approval.

The main questions before the people of this State will be the election of a criminal to the bench of their hishest court and the approval by the people of the theft by Maynard and his associates of a seat in the State Senate by which the Democrats secured a majority. No amount of "sops" to Anti-Snappers, and no amount of carefully worded support of the Cleveland Administration in the platform, will avail to blind the voters to this fact. If the criminal class can now put one of its members in the Court of Appeals after a fair fight with the rest of the community, and upon a case so clear as Maynard's, it will assuredly do it again. If a party can take a tainted man, describe him in this way in open convention, and then elect him to a place for which high character is two-thirds of the qualification, it will show that we have turned a most momentous corner in the history of the State. . Mr. Bartlett, the candidate for the Court of Appeals, might with advantage be better known, but he is a man of good standing at the bar, and bears an unblemished name and comes of good stock, for he is the grandson of a distinguished Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of New-Hampshire. He ought to be elected by an overwhelming majority. From The New-York Evening Post (Mugwump).

THE MACHINE'S LAST ROPE. TO ELECT THE PRAUD-MAKER BY FURTHER

From The New-York Mail and Express (Rep.).

The action of the machine last year and its endeavor again this year to evade a direct appeal to the people in the Maynard case show how fearful of the result of such an appeal it is. It nominates Maynard now because it can do nothing else, He will run for the same reason. Refusal to norminate or refusal to accept would have been cowardice unexampled in politics. The machine will fight desperately in the campaism. It has but one hope of carrying Maynard through, and that is to not hope of carrying Maynard through, and that is small between the machine and non-honest vote he would be overwhelmed by a phenomenal majority.

AN OUTRAGE WITHOUT PRECEDENT.

HAYE HONEST DEMOCRATS NOT ENOUGH MANLINESS TO ELSENT IT!

From The New-York Press (Rep.).

Isaac H. Maynard is the gravest Issue in the State campaign. For the first time in the history of the Empire State its citizens are asked to elect to the bench of their highest court a man who stands branded as a criminal. FRAUDS.

From The New-York Press (Rep.).

Isaac H. Maynard is the gravest issue in the State campaign. For the first time in the history of the Empire State its citizens are asked to elect to the bench of their highest court a man who stands branded as a criminal. The State machine, of which Richard Croker and David B. Hill are the chief engineers, has inflicted a series of grievous wrongs on the people. But the doubled taxrate, the outrag-ous gerrymander, the invasion of local self-government and the overthrow of non-partisan election boards, helmous as these offences are, do not equal in gravity the supreme issue involved in the nomination of Maynard as Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals.

The tax-gatherer touches the pocketbook. The election of Maynard would disgrace and degrade the State. An unjust tax-rate robs the citizen of a portion of his earnings. Maynard and his masters robbed the whole people of representative government by stealing a Legislature.

The full Republican vote in this State will be cast against this representative of rand and theft. How many Democratis will have independence and manliness enough to repudlate stealing at the ballot-box? The question transcends partisanship. The commandment. "Thou shalt not steal," is mightier than party platforms. The honor of this imperial Commonwealth, the purity of its judiclary and the right of its citizens to be governed by their elected representatives are at stake.

THE REWARD OF A GREAT CRIME.

From The New-York Morning Advertiser (Rep.).

From The New-York Morning Advertiser (Rep.).
The shameful fact that this man was guilty of criminally abstracting the lead returns of an election in order to seat a defeated candidate for the State Senate has not been forgotten by the people of New-York.

This crime having been committed in the interest of the Democratic party, the man who perpetrated it has been not only protected and shielded from punishment, but actually rewarded by that party. The reward was bestowed by Governor Flower only a few months age, when he appointed Maynard to fill a vacancy on the bench of this same Court of Appeals to which he was nominated yesterday.

NO QUARTER IN THIS FIGHT. MAYNARD MUST BE BEATEN, OR CRIME WILL BE

TRIUMPHANT.

From The New-Yerk Evening Telegram (Ind.).
Tammany has committed itself and burnt the bridges in its rear. It proposes to thrust an obnoxious man down our throats whether we will or no. The opposition will be fierce and bitter, for white there are good men who have the confidence of the community, the people are forced either to take their medicine or scratch the ticker

TEXTS FROM DEMOCRATIC PAPERS.

REPUBLICANS NEED.

From The New-York Recorder (Rep.).

"The Recorder" can print no words more scathing in condemnation of Maynard than its leading Democratic contemporaries in advance of Maynard's nomination have printed concerning him. He has been denounced by them as a man on whom the ermine of our highest court should not fall by popular vote. But the Democratic machine needs him in the Court of Appeals, and it has resolved to put him there if it can do so. It is for the people to say whether that machine, masquerading under the name of Democracy, can accomplish its purpose. Judge Maynard stands condemned by his own associates of the bar, irrespective of party. He was tried by them on grave charges and found guilty. A man branded by his own profession as unworthy must be indeed unworthy. And that is Maynard's record.

MAYNARD TAINTS THE WHOLE TICKET. DEMOCRACY HAS MADE ITSELF THE PARTY OF

From The Troy Times (Rep.).

As a sop to the Anti-Snappers, a Cleveland man heads the ticket, but the most important name upon it is that of Isaac H. Maynard, candidate for Judge of the Court of Appeals. This nomination gains its prominence from Maynard's connection with the Dutchess County election theft and the purpose of Senator Hill to "vindicate" him by an election to the highest court in the State. It matters little who are the candidates for the other state offices. The licket takes its character from Maynard, and that character is one which has been condemned, even by many Democrats, and by some of the most influential Democratic papers.
